A King's Speech

One day this month King George opened Queenway, the new underwater tunnel which runs from Liverpool to Rirkenhead below the river Mersey. It is the longest and largest tunnel of its kind in the world and one of the great feats of British engineering. It has taken nine years to build.

The King was cheered by a million people as he opened the tunnel. To the crowd he made a short speech. It was assuredly one of the best speeches ever heard on a ceremonial occasion like this. His Majesty said:

This thoroughfare is great and strange. The wonder of your tunnel will only come into mind after reflection. Who can reflect without awe that the will and power of men, which in our time have created the noble bridges of the Thames, the Forth the Hudson and Sydney Harbor can drive also tunnels such as this, in which many streams of wheeled traffic may run in light and safety below the depths and turbulence of tidal water bearing ships of the world.

Many hundreds have toiled here and the work of many thousands all over the country has helped their toil. I thank all whose efforts have achieved this miracle.

May those who use it ever keep grateful thought of the many who struggled for long months against mud and darkness to bring it into being.

May our people always work to gather thus for the blessing of this Kingdom by wise and noble uses of power that man has won from nature. Most of the best short speeches on record have been spoken on battlefields or devoted to the theme of war. Here is one which celebrates a victory of peace. It could hardly be improved.

Literary Family

The Greenmans are distinctly literary in their pursuits," said Mrs. Jones to a neighbor. "The daughter writes poetry that nobody will print, the son writes plays that nobody will act and the mother writes novels that nobody will read."

And what does the father write? Oh he writes checks that nobody will cash.

Modern Conveniences

Joe—I certainly am strong for those labor saving devices. I don't have any trouble looking for my collar-buttons now. I always find them in a certain place.

Bill—where is that?

Joe—in the vacuum cleaner.

The generous rarely get rich.

Do your best and leave thereat.

Without sorrow we should not appreciate happiness.

If you have to elbow your stomachs by being a good fellow, you're in with the wrong crowd.

Sandy was learning to play the bagpipes. One night while he was strutting about the room, skirling for all he was worth, his wife attempted a mild protest. "That's an awful noise ye're making," she said. Sandy sat down and took off his boots, then got up and resumed his piping in his stocking feet.

Factors in Good Jelly Making

Three substances are essential to a good jelly. They are pectin, sugar and acid. Pectin is a quantity jellying agent. It varies considerably in fruits both in quality and quantity. Analysis of small fruits in the chemical laboratories of the central Experimental Farm has shown how readily pectin deteriorates. To retain their maximum jellying capacity these fruits should be picked when just ripe and should be used as soon as possible after picking.

Sugar plays an important part in jelly formation. Texture, flavor and yield of jelly are largely determined by the amount of sugar added. Ordinarily the best jellies contain about 66 to 68 per cent of sugar in the finished product, but the necessary amount of sugar to be added will vary with the composition of the fruit. Too much sugar in proportion to pectin and acid is one of the most common causes of failure in jelly making. Other things being equal, a weak jelly results from the addition of too much sugar and a tough jelly from the addition of too little.

The acid content or more correctly the active acidity of fruits is the third essential of jelly formation. If it is too high sweating will occur. If it is too low the jelly will not set. All fruits contain acid in varying amount. In general the acid in the fruit provides sufficient acid activity for the making of good jelly, provided that sufficient pectin and sugar are present.

Investigation in the chemical laboratories have shown how important it is to obtain a proper balance between pectin, sugar and active acidity to produce the best jellies.

A combination of 62 per cent and 65 per cent pectin with 67 per cent sugar was found to give a very satisfactory product.

NEWS FROM THE CAPITAL

Wheat prospects are bright in central and northern Alberta, according to a compilation of information received here by a city newspaper. This year's crop in the above section of the province promises to be the largest in three years, with an estimated average of 25 bushels to the acre. Yields are said to be as good as 20 bushels to the acre in the Edmonton district and in parts of the North.

Some amusing replies to questions on the examinations passed by pupils in Alberta school examinations this summer have come to light. They might well be described as "Howlers." One pupil told the examiners that "Duke was the same man as his father."

Another young hopeful wrote that "Washington shot at Mohammed and just missed him." It was stated by him that they did not vote by ballad before 1822. A young politician wrote "Elections provide opportunity time to fight with your friends."

In the English literature papers the examiners found that Gabriel and Evan Gollie were separate in the explorer of the Acadians.

The federal government's allowance to Alberta for direct relief under the "Lump sum" policy announced by Premier Bennett when the Dominion provincial conference opened at Ottawa on July 29, is likely to be $90,000 a month. Hon. George Howley, provincial minister of agriculture who is heading the Alberta delegation at the conference is returning home.

Roman Catholics will gather in the Capital on August 7 for a three days Ecumenical Congress of the Edmonton Diocese. Services will be held outside the city at Stettler, Smoky Lake, St. Albert and other points. Archbishop O'Leary and Rt. Rev. G. Murray, Bishop of Saskatoon will take part in the celebrations.

Political snow is shimmering in the various party pots of the province, according to news gathered in Edmonton. Conservatives plan to put a candidate in almost every constituency during the campaign before the provincial election. Liberals are also planning to attack the U. F. A. strongholds in force, and the latter are not idle in their plans to hold the confidence of the electorate and return to the legislature in a strong position if possible after the next election. There are no indications yet as to when the election will be held.

Edmonton society is again getting a thrill out of the news concerning Lord Edward Montague, who married the former Miss Nona Pratt of Edmonton. This advantage over news reaching a England, is reported over the cables to have announced he is about to be married, while he has a wife, the Edmonton Lady. It is believed this city. People are wondering whether or his Lordship is planning a case of open bribery. Lady Montague stated Saturday that no procedure for a divorce has been instituted, and the story is absurd. In the meantime Edmonton society wonders and feels amused.

CO-OP CONFERENCE AT OLDS

The reactions of Alberta agriculture to the new Natural Products Marketing Act recently passed by Dominion Parliament were crystallized in two vital and far reaching resolutions

"You Can't Stop stoking a steam engine"

Said Wrigley

Interviewed, and asked to what he attributed his phenomenal success, the late Mr. Wrigley, of chewing gum fame, replied, "To the consistent advertising of a good product."

"But," asked the reporter, "having captured practically the entire market, why continue to spend vast sums annually on advertising?"

Wrigley's reply was illuminating.

"Once having raised steam in an engine," he stated, "it requires continuous stoking to keep it up. Advertising stokes up business and keeps it running on a full head of steam."

"This applies to your business, too. Don't make a secret of your product. Tell people all about it. Tell them what it does. Tell them its advantages. Tell them where to get it. Tell them through the Press and keep on telling them."

which emerged from the discussions of this act in the Marketing Conference and Cooperative Institute which closed its sessions at Olds Agriculture College last Thursday evening.

The first resolution, expressing the attitude of Alberta wheat growers, was passed unanimously on Wednesday afternoon, after the wheat growers' group had thoroughly discussed the new Marketing Act on Wednesday morning.

This resolution was introduced by H. M. Baker, president of the Provincial Milk Producers Association and secretary of West Saskatchewan U. F. A. Local at Edmonton, and is as follows: "Whereas there appear to be certain benefits gained by the wheat growers of Canada in taking advantage of the new marketing legislation recently passed by our Federal Parliament, and if found advisable prepare to accept its requirements."

"Therefore, Be it resolved by the wheat growers assembled in this Marketing Conference and Cooperative Institute, that the wheat growers, through their regular association, go into the details of this legislation and, if found advisable prepare to accept its requirements."

The resolution expressing the attitude of the livestock producers' association was passed unanimously on Thursday morning, after a less satisfactory resolution which had been passed on Wednesday afternoon, had been reconsidered. This resolution was also sponsored by Mr. Bailey who introduced the wheat growers' resolution and it is as follows:

"Whereas it is apparent that the intention of the Dominion Government in bringing into being the Natural Products Marketing Act, 1934, was to benefit producers of agricultural products throughout the Dominion, and Whereas, there is immediate need for action particularly in regard to dairy products and livestock.

"Therefore, Be it resolved that this conference of Cooperative Producers go on record as endorsing the legislation of the Dominion Parliament in regard to marketing and that the proper authorities be requested to appoint the Marketing Board immediately, in order that applications of producers organizations may receive immediate attention and

"Be it further resolved, that in the appointment of the personnel of the Federal Marketing Board of the Govt. be requested to give representations to producers of primary products.

The keen interest in the Marketing Act, the active intelligent discussions which took place following the addresses of Dr. J. E. Booth and Alfred Speakman, M. P., on Tuesday afternoon, proved how desperate, how vital, how urgent is the need for an intelligent, controlled system of disposing of the natural products which we are able to pour out from Alberta soil and Alberta ranges in such increasing volume.

Interesting addresses were also given by Hon. J. R. Love, Provincial Treasurer, and Hon. P. S. Grisdale Minister of Agriculture.

EARNED HIS HALO

The editor stood at the party gate, his face was worn and old; he meekly asked of the man of fate Admission to the fold.

"What have you done?" St. Peter asked,

"To seek admission here?"

"Oh I ran a country printing plant on earth for many a year.

The gate swung open sharply as Peter touched the bell.

"Come in," he said and take a harp. You've had enough of hell.
